THOUGHTS ON 2013

When we declared our theme for 2013, The Outdoors is for Everyone, we spoke from our hearts. We believe strongly that we all benefit from spending time in the outdoors and it is – and will become – increasingly more accessible to all of us, no matter our age, experience, or abilities. Because we have such a network of parks and forests that afford so many varied activities, with a little trial and error, we can discover our passions. Not into sweating? Consider plein air painting! Not an artist? Consider paddling, hiking, disc golf, and so much more! Think you are too old for the outdoors? Think again!

As I look back at 2013 – we are now half way through 2014 – I am proud of the accomplishments made by our friends, our volunteers, and our staff, all made possible by people like YOU, who support us through time, donations, feedback, expertise, and encouragement. We cannot thank you enough for everything you do to make our parks and forests for EVERYONE and to ensure that they remain for EVERYONE in years to come.

As you read through the pages, I hope that you see yourself in the work that we accomplished, and that you find inspiration—inspiration to go outdoors, introduce someone to a new activity or place, or to roll up your sleeves and jump into our work. There are ample opportunities to get involved or to continue your involvement, from being a voice for parks and forests to starting a friends group. We’ll show you how.

Immerse yourself in this Annual Report. Perhaps pack a picnic lunch and head on out to your favorite state forest or park picnic area, and take in your surroundings while reading. Pat yourself on the back for a job well done, and know that your efforts are appreciated, not just by the staff here at the Pennsylvania Parks and Forests Foundation, but by all who use our public lands.

Yours in the Outdoors,

Marci
Message from the DCNR Secretary
Ellen Ferretti

As a child growing up in the northeast, my love of nature was nurtured during our family visits to the state parks closest to our home. This tradition was passed down when I had children; we went to our local state parks and forests to camp and experience the outdoors. To this day, our connection to the natural world is strong.

Just as they are now, our state parks and forests were an affordable opportunity to every citizen for healthy outdoor exercise. Our continued ability to conserve our public lands and provide a quality outdoor experience for all of our visitors is why we at DCNR are so excited about our work to improve facilities, expand acquisitions, and make our public lands even better.

We also believe DCNR could not have a better partner than the Pennsylvania Parks and Forests Foundation to raise much needed funds for Pennsylvania’s beloved state parks and forests. Working with parks and forestry staff to identify critical infrastructure and staff training needs and then seeking funding are great ways to help our state parks and forests meet the needs of the resource and, of course, our visitors. We sincerely thank PPFF for all of the great work it does.

The outdoors truly are for everyone and we hope your outdoor adventures take you to a state park or forest sometime soon.

Message from Chairman of PPFF Board of Directors
George Asimos

Since you are reading this Annual Report you probably share my feeling that “I’m never happier than when I am in a forest.” There are countless great moments in our lives and for many of us, a forest is involved. We make memories - yearly hiking and camping trips with the kids, taking our daughters hunting for the first time, family picnics, a summer concert or a fall festival.

Our Pennsylvania parks and forests are full of opportunity, enrichment, and inspiration. If you are a Friends group volunteer, a park manager, forester, or vendor you know that these magnificent natural assets don’t maintain themselves. And the projects and programs that make them safe and accessible take people-power and resources to accomplish.

If you are a donor or a grant funder of PPFF or Friends projects, we hope you’ve seen first-hand the effects - measurable and immeasurable - of your generosity.

If you are not among these remarkable groups of individuals, would you give some thought to how you might find your spot? Volunteer for a Friends group event or work project at your favorite park. Donate to one of our “Wish List” projects or join with a friend to adopt one as your own. Our website has wish list projects for every interest and almost every park.

Thanks for all that you do to protect and enhance our natural resources. See you in the forest!

Great Pennsylvania Outdoor Challenge participant family shows their love of state parks and forests by hugging a tree.

“I love this program! I enjoy the photos and the little snipettes. You girls do a great job! Most of my adventures lately have been quick little jaunts to nearby trails and parks - not necessarily in the state park system. Bummer. None-the-less, I love reading the plugs for all the parks - it is a motivator!! Keep Up the Good Work!”

~ Janet Ball
Using The Outdoors is for Everyone as a theme begs for more discussion. While the idea of “everyone” seems obvious, the reality is that we live in a world full of people with wildly different abilities. Inclusion is the acceptance of all people regardless of their differences.

Inclusion in recreation is more than encouraging people of different abilities and interests to participate in the same activity. In order for the idea to translate into meaningful opportunities, inclusion must be a shared value. We believe that with appropriate training, education, and equipment, our state parks and forests can be “for everyone.”

2013 was the year of widening the circle.

The Pennsylvania Parks and Forests Foundation raises funds for programs and projects via grant writing, corporate donations, private donations, and in-kind partnerships.

We focused our attention on these ideas:

- A training for state park and forest staff in body mechanics...where DCNR and PPFF staff and volunteers learned methods of assisting those with special needs engage in outdoor recreation.
- Organized training for park managers on the topic of working with volunteers.
- Accessible Recreation: Training DCNR and PPFF staff and volunteers on techniques and assessment; purchasing equipment to increase accessibility and raising funds to update trails and docks for accessibility.
- Playgrounds in parks that need them, ensuring ADA elements.
- PPFF received a convening grant from the Foundation for Pennsylvania’s Watersheds to host a discussion on preserving the history of the conservation movement.
- A grant from the Kline Foundation, which will be administered in 2014, provides for increased access for visitors with disabilities to Kings Gap Environmental Education Center.
- A grant from Pennsylvania American Water Company provided watershed education for students in partnership with Lackawanna and Nescopeck state parks.

The Pennsylvania Parks and Forests Foundation has living gifts program in which people purchase gifts of recreation, historic preservation, plants, and education through the Foundation. http://paparksandforests.org/ways_to_give.html
The Pennsylvania Parks and Forests Foundation managed a matching grant program (funded by the Department of Conservation and Natural Resources Community Conservation and Partnership Program) from 2009 until 2013. These grants helped to leverage private sector funds for local level projects. While the funds for this program are no longer available, the Foundation hopes to secure funds to continue it in the future. Projects funded in 2013 utilizing these funds included:

- A first time archery program at both Ryerson Station and Raccoon Creek state parks. These programs are part of regular programming and special events to engage youth and adults in this growing outdoor pastime.
- The Friends of Pinchot State Park raised funds to purchase a second playground for the park, with assistance from our matching grant program, providing recreational opportunities for our young park visitors.
- Originally funded with a grant from REI, PPFF provided supplemental funds to build a public amphitheater at Shawnee State Park (still under construction).
- We provided funds and assisted with raising revenue for a volunteer run project to build a nine-hole disc golf course at Sam Lewis State Park.
- The Friends of Goddard State Park host an annual pioneer frolic. Funds through our matching grant program assisted in hiring reenactors for this popular event that brings history to life for people of all ages.
- In 2013, PPFF provided funding to build a canoe and kayak rack at Hills Creek State Park. Not only does the rack provide a safe place to store private paddling gear, it provides a revenue stream for the park.
- In 2013, with funds from a REI grant that PPFF wrote and received, employees at the Forbes State Forest finalized the finishing touches on a new roof for a warming hut.

The first (of what we plan to be many) military outdoors event was held in early September at Gifford Pinchot State Park, giving service members and their families a chance to try accessible forms of recreation, improve their skills, and enjoy a picnic lunch. Handcycling, adaptive kayaking, hiking, campfire cooking, biking, fishing, and many other outdoor activities were on tap for Pennsylvania’s wounded service members, veterans and their families at PPFF’s Pinchot Outdoors Day - The Outdoors is for Everyone!

Experts in accessible recreation were on hand for instruction and support, and families also enjoyed presentations about outdoor safety, search and rescue dogs, and service dogs. More than 20 exhibitors took part and provided information ranging from accessible recreation opportunities to independent living and veterans’ services. The event was made possible in part by support from the Pennsylvania Department of Community and Economic Development and the Department of Conservation and Natural Resources, and through the support of local businesses.
We are enthusiastic about our state parks and forests and we have a lot to share. On any given day there are opportunities for new activities and experiences, events to attend, new skills to learn. It’s easy to become informed so this becomes a part of your life. Since we all have preferences on how we receive and communicate information, the Foundation strives to “speak your language.” For those of you who prefer the printed word we offer our three times a year newsletter and annual report. And for those of you who prefer your information electronically, we are on Facebook, Twitter, Pinterest, and offer a weekly e-blast and our bimonthly e-zine Explore. We want to create a connected community while serving as a voice for your public lands. We hope you learn new skills and ideas – and hope to help you find great additions to your “bucket list.”

Do you have an idea? A question? Talk to us; we are an open door for your thoughts and ideas because we are here for YOU.

Let’s talk! Here are the many ways we reach out to you… and provide opportunities for you to tell us what’s on your mind.

Penn’s Stewards – our three times a year newsletter. Our newsletters are popular and we have received requests for reprints, particularly of our features on accessible recreation. In 2013, we developed our newsletter articles around the Outdoors is for Everyone theme. The spring newsletter focused on environmental education, the summer on accessible recreation, and the fall on the outdoors with pets and horses. Additionally, we produced one issue of Pets and the Outdoors, a newsletter for dog owners. Back issues for all newsletters are available on our website.

Take Five Fridays with Pam – a weekly eBlast that continues to be popular with users and reaches an audience of 3,500 people.

EXPLORE - a bimonthly eZine that explores the world of recreation, volunteerism, and green living in Pennsylvania’s parks and forests. This year, Explore’s audience grew to nearly 100,000.
Goal Tender – a May through November weekly electronic newsletter focused on themes relating to the Pennsylvania Parks and Forests Passport. Back issues are available at www.thegpoc.org

PPFF on Facebook – We reached our goal of 3,500 Facebook fans by the end of 2013 in mid-December, a 30% increase in “page likes” since 2012. We reach approximately 2,000 people per week via Facebook, connecting our fans to PPFF initiatives, Chapter events and Facebook pages, and information on state parks and forests across Pennsylvania.

Our Website - Resources and materials are always readily available - fact sheets, newsletters, videos, photo galleries, press releases, and more are a “click” away. The Foundation website continues to be source of information for friends groups, park and forest visitors, our partners in conservation, and our interested public.

Twitter - Our Twitter base continues to grow: we have reached 700 followers over the past 6 months, a 25% increase, and we have sent out more than 1,000 “tweets” since we joined the platform.

Pinterest - Our Pinterest presence continues to grow as we expand our social media reach to that site. We launched a YouTube site with the addition of two instructional videos—choosing a bicycle and changing a tire.

PPFF received generous media attention in 2013, racking up more than 55 news stories across multiple platforms including newspaper articles, television and radio features, online news sites and blog posts. Even two out-of-state organizations (in Boston and New York) ran articles about our work to increase accessibility of state parks and forests.

With support from the Department of Community and Economic Development, we created three new banners for tabling at events—the banners focus on getting outdoors, volunteering, and the network of parks and forests in Pennsylvania. In 2013, we developed outdoor recreation fact sheets that we are co-producing with DCNR. Look for these in 2014!
Outdoors With Our Partners and YOU!

It would be impossible to have a goal of making the outdoors for everyone without the guidance, expertise, support, and energy of the many partners that make our work possible. Partnerships are the backbone of the Foundation and our friends groups. We thank all of our partners for helping to make our public lands even better.

Here are some of the projects and organizations we partnered with:

• Westmoreland County Sports League (Outdoor Day at Keystone State Park)
• Central Pennsylvania Conservancy (Goddard Legacy Project and Goddard Leadership Legacy Institute and sponsored CPC Conservationist of the Year Award)
• Shippensburg University (Internship program and Susquehanna River Graduate Course for Educators)
• Susquehanna River Trail Association (work on Weiser State Forest Islands)
• PA Hallowed Ground Project (co-sponsored an event to support trainings on caring for old cemeteries)
• Pennsylvania Association of Environmental Professionals (co-sponsored a presentation about Mira Lloyd Dock)
• Growing Greener Coalition (funding for public lands)

We celebrated the first annual Days in the Life of a State Forest and State Park on April 13 and May 25 respectively. These days are meant to celebrate in photographs our public places on two significant days — the Saturdays closest to the birthday of Joseph Rothrock, the father of our state forests, and the founding of our first Pennsylvania state park at Valley Forge. Park and forest visitors were invited to upload photographs taken that specific day, for what amounted to a fun, no-cost way to spread the word about our beautiful and exciting outdoor spaces.
The Great Pennsylvania Outdoors Challenge

In 2013, the GPOC took on a new form: weekly challenges tied to the themes in the PPFF Passport, monthly focuses for thought (and action), prizes and encouragement. One hundred forty-four people signed up for the Challenge. At the conclusion of the 2013 program, we conducted online and telephone surveys with participants. The response was overwhelmingly positive: they spent more time outdoors with family and friends, visited new state parks and forests, exercised more, lost weight, and reconnected with themselves. Most respondents were interested in the program as a vehicle to spend more time in the outdoors, set goals to improve health and fitness, and to explore new places and activities.

The GPOC has been gratifying on two significant levels. First and foremost, we've heard great stories from our participants about how the GPOC has helped them focus their intentions — whether it's to simply make time for outdoor activities, to kick their health and wellness goals into higher gear, or to visit new places or try a new sport. Second, we discovered we are trendsetters. Several times over the course of the challenge, we'd find materials or information on challenges very similar to our GPOC such as Iowa's Department of Natural Resources' H2O challenge – Healthy & Happy Outdoors!

In addition to our work in making parks and forests for everyone, we received a number of grants for improvements to parks and forests to make them safer and attractive places to visit. These include:

• We worked with Ohiopyle State Park to receive two grants from the National Road Heritage Corridor—one for fencing repairs to the Great Allegheny Passage rail trail and the other to plant bioswales—natural structures to improve storm water runoff and quality—in Ohiopyle Borough.

• With a gift card from Lowes we purchased tools for volunteer work days at Cowans Gap State Park.

• We received a grant from the Lincoln Highway Heritage Corridor to improve and make accessible an amphitheater at Caledonia State Park, with a completion date of 2014.

• Working with the Friends of Laurel Hill State Park, we received a grant to make repairs to the fire tower at the park, with a 2014 completion date.

PPFF hosted our annual “Through the Seasons” photo contest for images taken in Pennsylvania’s state parks and forests. We had more than 150 admissions from across the commonwealth. Prizes were awarded in four categories: Appreciation of Beauty, Outdoor Recreation, Kids in the Outdoors, and Dogs in the Outdoors. We also awarded people’s choice and critics’ choice best of show. What categories would YOU like to see in future photo contests?

But now I’VE SEEN THEM – IN PERSON, on the Elk Scenic Drive in the Pennsylvania Wilds!

I took about 50 photos. I can’t believe how beautiful they are!
I’m coming back next year!!!

Honoring our roots

We continue to shine a spotlight on the Civilian Conservation Corps, the phenomenal conservation program that served as a catalyst to modern conservation efforts and the genesis of many of the Commonwealth’s state parks. In addition to a regular feature in our newsletter, we celebrated the 80th anniversary of the CCC through visitations, plaques and letters.

Author Ralph Harrison autographs his most recent book, Quehanna: The Blemished Jewel Restored after leading a tour along the elk scenic drive during the annual elk rut.

Conservation Heritage

The successful Goddard Legacy Project has expanded to a broader program of Conservation Legacy. The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has a remarkable history of conservation dating at least to the late 19th century when industrialization rapidly took hold and when environmental resources were impacted and, in many cases, depleted by economic growth. It is a story that largely remains untold but for a few individual histories of events, people, and organizations.

The purpose of the Conservation Legacy Project is to document and create a comprehensive history of Pennsylvania’s conservation heritage. The project will: include archival research and extensive oral histories with individuals who were or are involved in conservation heritage; conduct a literature review of conservation organizations that have developed their own histories; produce a documentary; and develop educational materials. Hi Ho, Hi Ho...
It’s OUT to Work We Go

Everywhere we do involves people like you – people willing to jump in with both feet and make things happen. Here are some of the ways we get together to demonstrate that the Outdoors is for Everyone.

The More You Know...
We believe that education enables people to realize how natural resources and ecosystems affect each other and how resources can be used wisely.

Through conservation education, people develop the critical thinking skills they need to understand the complexities of ecological problems. Conservation education also encourages people to act on their own to conserve natural resources and use them in a responsible manner by making informed resource decisions.

To this end, we share what we know with interested citizens and students in every forum we can. In 2013, in addition to our regular tabling at events, we were at:

- Environmental studies and policy class at the University of Pittsburgh
- Environmental studies at Penn State Fayette, the Eberly Campus
- Pennsylvania Recreation and Parks Society annual conference where we presented the workshop: Friends Groups—what you always wanted to know
- We presented at several Rotary clubs on the history of state parks and forests
- We presented to the Susquehanna Appalachian Trail Club on hiking in state parks and forests

We Reached Out to the Public through Exhibitions at:

- Carlisle Sports and Outdoors Nationals
- Private Forest Landowners Conference: the Future of Penn’s Woods
- 2013 PA Association of Nonprofit Organizations Conference
- Susquehanna River Trails Association
- Capital Blue Cross “Healthy Pet – Healthy You”
- PA Heritage Foundation, “Holiday Marketplace”

“I love the tea! It certainly is strong and is definitely reminiscent of a campfire—I keep it in its own jar so the smoke flavor doesn’t go into my other teas. I also bought the elderberry one, which I’m steeping right now since I just got back from taking my dog for a walk in the snow through the field.”

~ Karen
The office was brightened by the presence of three summer interns. One worked in expanding our marketing and communications and two, shared with the Susquehanna River Trail Association, worked to build the volunteer base. In the fall, we had one intern who assisted with research.

PPFF worked with graduating college students entering the world of conservation through mock interviews, internships, and career fairs and hosted a week-long workshop on conservation history for graduate students. PPFF participated in internship fairs at Penn State University and Shippensburg University, and continues to expand our relationships with Millersville and Messiah Colleges.

Not forgetting the adult learners among us, we developed a fact sheet and conducted a Twitter conference on greening your office space and acted as opening speaker at the Pennsylvania Association of Nonprofit Organizations’ annual conference.

Here are some of the communities we reached out to highlight our mission and plans:

Our Elected Officials
- We reached out to the Pa General Assembly by creating “record bowls” pressed out of vinyl records that included the message, “For the record, the Keystone Fund Works.” Bowls were delivered to all elected officials.

- We co-hosted a legislative reception with the Growing Greener Coalition and the Pennsylvania Recreation and Parks Society.

PPFF President Marci Mowery joins members of the Growing Greener Coalition to celebrate the 25th anniversary of the Keystone Fund.
PPFF Friends Say “Hey!! Take It Outside!”

PPFF’s Friends Groups are the very picture of what “Everybody” looks like. Because they care and they can, these dedicated volunteers make our parks and forests better to use and visit.

We now have 36 chapters of the Foundation. Some sample programs and activities from the chapters included:

MUSIC FESTIVALS & EVENTS:
- Friends of Shikellamy presented concerts at the overlook, Sunday brunches at the Marina and drum circles throughout the year
- Friends of Weiser hosted a barn dance
- Friends of Kings Gap presented four “Music on the Mountain” concerts
- Friends of Goddard held a two-day “Music at the Marina” festival
- Friends of Colonel Denning hosted three “Music in the Park” evening programs
- Friends of Laurel Hill organized the now huge Bluegrass Festival
- Friends of Prince Gallitzin hosted campground extravaganzas
- Halloween parties included the “Spooktacular” at Lyman Run, the “Boo Crew” at Pymatuning, Pinchotween at Gifford Pinchot, and a hayride at Parker Dam.
- Annual square dance at Mt. Pisgah State Park.
- Youth fishing derbies brought out families at Ohiopyle, Keystone and Lyman Run
- Car shows and holiday open houses
- Trail work and playground builds rounded out the Chapters’ schedules

HISTORICAL EVENTS:
- Friends of Pine Grove assisted in the 100 year celebration of the park
- Friends of Goddard presented their very popular Pioneer Frolic
- Friends of Greenwood Furnace showcased Old Home Days
- Friends of White Clay Creek honored Mason-Dixon and the place where three states come together
To support the work of our Friends Groups, the Foundation sponsors monthly “Chapter Chats,” a conference call for chapter leaders to ask questions, share successes, and to network with other chapters; annual chapter retreats for training and information sharing; and regular electronic communications “Tidbits from Marci” in which we share knowledge gained, answer questions, etc. In addition, we offer ongoing support through which we address concerns, provide research and legal analysis, develop fact sheets and best practices, funnel questions and make connections, assist in grant writing, and overall provide moral support.

In the areas of fundraising, in addition to grants mentioned earlier in this report, we worked with:

- The Friends of Pine Grove Furnace to submit a grant which was awarded from the Appalachian Trail Conservancy to repair the furnace stack to prevent farther deterioration.
- The Friends of Nockamixon State Park received a general operating grant from the Community Foundation of the Lehigh Valley and they received a grant from the Philadelphia Foundation to apply towards an ADA EZ Dock.

AND SPEAKING OF WINNING...

YAY US! We thought you might like to know that our Goddard Legacy Project won a national award. The goal was to celebrate the accomplishments of Maurice K. Goddard and to rededicate all Pennsylvanians to his vision and values for the conservation of our natural resources. Last year, the National Association of State Park Directors honored us with their President’s Award as a project of statewide significance. They lauded the project as having made an extraordinary contribution to the state’s conservation heritage, public awareness, and support for public resources through the documentation of the history and legacy of PA’s state park system.
When we say the Outdoors is for Everyone...
we mean EVERY-one/kid/family/dog!

“What a joy it is to feel the soft, springy earth under my feet once more, to follow grassy roads that lead to ferny brooks where I can bathe my fingers in a cataract of rippling notes, or to clamber over a stone wall into green fields that tumble and roll and climb in riotous gladness!”

~ Helen Keller

We think the above quote by Helen Keller is a fitting way to end our year of the Outdoors is for Everyone. Who best to speak about overcoming perceived limitations to find your passions and strengths than this amazing woman. We all have days when we think we ‘can’t’ do something, whether it’s lack of time, skill, or physical limitation. Yet all around us are role models showing us otherwise.

We thank you for supporting our work to ensure there is a place and an experience for everyone in the outdoors. While we can’t create more time in the day, we can help you learn to prioritize your time so that you can enjoy the health benefits and well being imparted by time outdoors. While we can’t personally teach you all a new skill, we can connect you to where you can learn one and offer opportunities for new experiences. And while we all have our own physical limitations to varied degrees, we can work together to minimize the impediments to outdoor recreation.

Please know that we thank each and every one of you - our donors - for your support. While we may not list every name in the annual report, you are the backbone of the Foundation, the pillar upon which we build our work. Thank you.
Financial Overview

As of December 31st, 2013, our total assets and liabilities, which includes funds from the 162 accounts managed by the Foundation, were $1,079,370.00

The expenses pie chart represents both Pennsylvania Parks and Forests Foundation (PPFF) operating budget as well as temporarily restricted funds for specific projects and programs. The income chart represents PPFF operating budget and does not reflect the temporarily restricted project and program income.

We respect and support your preference to use paper judiciously. We strive to minimize the page count and print run of the annual reports we share with you and other important constituencies. That said, we also believe it is important to publicly recognize our donors, as they make the fulfillment of our mission possible.

In every newsletter, eBlast, or blog, you may read about where we came from:
...landmark conservation work through the WPA’s Civilians Conservation Corps, fascinating histories of our state parks and forests, and the experiences of our friends and volunteers.

And where we are going:
...strengthening our commitment to a living legacy by offering opportunities such as Memorial or Honorary Gifts. You can honor the memory of a special person or joyous occasion while supporting our work in conservation, recreation, education, and volunteerism in our state parks and forests.

We encourage our members, partners and friends to continue the legacy of conservation of our state parks and forests for future generations through a bequest or life income as well.
